Prairie books NOW

Why advertise in Prairie books NOW?

The new Prairie books NOW is a colour magazine dedicated to promoting books from the Canadian prairies. Twice a year, PbN is sent out to book buyers, booksellers, librarians, schoolteachers, readers, the media, and more. No other publication or catalogue targets the prairie market as effectively as Prairie books NOW. PbN reaches the consumers you want.

With a readership of over 60,000, Prairie books NOW is the single best way for you to promote your prairie published or authored title, your upcoming events, your business, or your love of prairie books.

PbN's editorial features author profiles, book excerpts, news, features, upcoming events, and everything your market wants to know about books, from fiction, non-fiction, to drama, poetry and children's and young adults' books.

WHAT does PbN do?

PbN acts as a catalogue for consumers and library, school and store buyers, while creating a media opportunity for publishers and authors.

WHY does PbN work?

Because we treat books as news, consumers read PbN as a magazine. Book buyers have a single source to seek out a "local interest" section. We include ordering information for each title covered (over 100 titles per issue), and consumers, librarians and book buyers, based on reader surveys, indicate PbN is a reliable source for information on prairie titles, both in terms of editorial and advertising content.

WHO gets PbN?

PbN is distributed to over 90 communities across Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, as well as to targeted bookstores and individuals across Canada, and in the US. We also have a subscription base of over 1,000 individual consumers. Bundles of PbN are distributed free to the consumer through all bookstores and libraries in the prairies. Individual copies are delivered to every individual library, bookstore, school buyer across the prairies, as well as to regional buyers and store managers in the major chains.
